

Bangladesh: South Asia's Next 'Bloody Battlefield' ?

By Eng Shafiq Islam (Political Analyst) & Action Counter Terrorism Certified Professional UK.

Since August 5, 2024, when the illegal occupier Yunus government seized power after former Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina was ousted, extremist Islamist groups like Hizb ut-Tahrir have been freely carrying out terrorist activities in the country under Muhammad Yunus's government. Other extremist Islamist groups have joined Hizb ut-Tahrir under government protection. Under the banner of 'Tawhidi Janata,' a reign of mob terror has been established across Bangladesh. The fear of terrorism in Bangladesh is further intensifying as Jamaat-e-Islami and Jihadi students plan to form an armed militia under the banner of the 'Islamic Revolutionary Army.' This not only threatens Bangladesh's stability but also the security of neighbouring India and the larger South Asian region.

Deepening Geopolitical Dangers

With Turkish support, logistics, and military aid, including from the Pakistani intelligence agency ISI, the geopolitics of the region have become dangerous. The 'Islamic Revolutionary Army' began forming on December 20, 2024, under the banner of 'Anti-Discrimination Student Movement,' funded and patronized by Barack Obama, Hillary Clinton, and George Soros. Taking advantage of the cancellation of previous security clearances for Pakistani citizens or people of Pakistani origin to enter Bangladesh, militants from ISI, Tehrik-i-Taliban Pakistan,
